Details

CatholicCare Sydney is the welfare agency of the Sydney Archdiocese of the Catholic Church. There are a number of CatholicCare and Centacare offices throughout New South Wales, each of which is aligned with its local Catholic Diocese and forms part of Catholic Social Services Australia. It was formerly called Centacare Catholic Community Services. It provides family services, children's and youth services, employment services and aged and disability services, and the Catholic Children's Homes Enquiry Service. In 2018, CatholicCare Adoption Services was transferred to the new organisation, Family Spirit.

CatholicCare Sydney established the Catholic Children's Home Enquiry Service to provide a centralised information, counselling and referral service for those former children who spent time in Homes previously operated by a number of organisation of the Catholic Church across the state.
