

Hospitals Commission of New South Wales

1929 – 1973

Details

The Hospitals Commission of New South Wales was a board appointed by the New South Wales Government in 1929 to provide a complete hospital system. It did not run hospitals, as hospitals had their own boards and management. The duties of the Commission were to inspect hospitals, inquire into standards and hospital administration, determine which hospitals qualified for government funding, and make recommendations about laws. The Hospitals Commission was replaced in 1973 by the Health Commission.

More info

Related Entries

Ran

- Queen Victoria Hospital for Women and Babies \(1895 - 1978\)

Related Organisations

- Crown Street Women's Hospital \(1893 - 1983\)
 - Health Commission, State Government of New South Wales \(1973 - 1982\)
The Hospitals Commission, part of the Department of Public Health, was abolished when the Health Commission of New South Wales was established.
 - Department of Public Health, State Government of New South Wales \(1938 - 1973\)
The Hospitals Commission was part of the Department of Public Health after 1938
-

You can view this page online by visiting <https://www.findandconnect.gov.au/entity/hospitals-commission-of-new-south-wales/>