

North-West Regional Resource Unit

1986 – 1995?

Details

The North-West Regional Resource Unit replaced the Lucinda Resource Centre. The new Unit opened on the same site, the former Weeroona Girls' Training Centre at Latrobe. In 1988, it moved to new offices in Burnie. The Centre closed during the 1990s.

The Unit undertook a range of activities designed to support families so that their children did not have to become state wards. These included a homemaker service, parenting groups, and an early intervention program. The Unit also ran an independent living unit.

More info

Chronology

- Lucinda Resource Centre (1980 - 1986)
 - North-West Regional Resource Unit (1986 – 1995?)

Related Entries

Related Glossary Terms

- Homemaker Service - Tasmania \(1976 - 1992?\)

The North-West Regional Resource Unit ran a homemaker service.

Related Organisations

- Department of Community Services, State of Tasmania \(1989 - 1993\)
The Department of Community Services ran the North-West Regional Resource Unit.
- Department for Community Welfare, State Government of Tasmania \(1983 - 1989\)
The Department for Community Welfare opened the North-West Regional Resource Unit.

You can view this page online by visiting <https://www.findandconnect.gov.au/entity/north-west-regional-resource-unit/>