Details

St Joseph's Catholic Orphanage for Girls was established in Perth by the Sisters of Mercy in 1868, for girls from the Poor House. Children who were destitute were accommodated, along with orphans. In 1901, the Home moved to Subiaco and became the St Joseph's Girls' Orphanage.

An orphanage for Catholic girls was first established in 1868 when 11 girls were taken from the Poor House to live at the Sisters of Mercy Convent behind the Catholic pro-Cathedral in Victoria Avenue. By the end of that year, the convent had 27 children and no more room. A public appeal, supported by both Catholics and Protestants, raised £1400 for new premises. A new Convent of Mercy in Victoria Square was completed in 1871 and the orphanage was named St Joseph's Catholic Orphanage for Girls. In 1901, the orphanage moved to the former premises of the St Vincent's Boys' Orphanage on Barrett Street, Subiaco, and became the St Joseph's Girls' Orphanage.

Orphanage Industrial School for Roman Catholic Girls, Hay Street East, Perth

Description: 'Orphanage Industrial School for Roman Catholic Girls, Hay Street East, Perth' is an image included (p.20) in the Report by the Superintendent of Public Charities and Inspector of Industrial and Reformatory Schools, etc., for the year ending 31 December 1900. This image shows a group of approximately 30 girls standing in gardens in front of a long two-storey building with enclosed upper floor verandahs. The younger girls are wearing white dresses, and the older girls are wearing dark dresses. Many of the girls are holding wide-brimmed hats. A group of nuns are standing several metres behind the girls.
